Chapter 1 by Phantim

How did I end up here?

In this horrible place. Was it chance, or bad luck? Perhaps my being here was destiny, or punishment for a sin I can't recall.

I hear it coming again.

I whisper to myself "How did I end up here?"

Chapter 2 by Evelynne Komorebi

I wanted to bang my head against the wall.

All the voices, all the screams and the talking.. they just wouldn't stop!

I sat in that dark room with the voices in my head. I was alone other than that.

I could easily walk away, walk out that door.. but I didn't want to.

I didn't want to leave.

The door opened very quietly, very slowly, and very very creepily.

It squeaked and my head jerked towards the door.

"Hello, Faren."

What do you want from this?

"Oh Faren, you know what I want from you... you can hear me... I know you can..."

The voices in my head began to rise, then suddenly everything went silent.

I looked up and glanced back at the door in horror as a black paw, with claws long and sharp as samuri swords, came through.

Chapter 4 by Tarena Tolar

I scream, and all at once it's like my ears shatter from all the screaming and crying. Never have I been so scared in my life. I force myself to look and see what the black paw was attached to. Suddenly I jerk my head around, and there, standing ten feet away was a black hairy monster-like figure with red eyes staring straight back at me. I scream and look back down, I take a minute to process the image in my mind. I have never in my life seen something so terrible, I just want to die now and get it over with. If I'm going to die then I want it to be quick and painless. My only solution right now is to scream. I get ready to scream the loudest scream I ever have before. I put my hands over my ears, put my head down and screamed bloody murder.

Chapter 5 by Darkforest

It was ear shattering. I let my vocal cords free and I screamed my loudest scream. All the lights blew out and I could feel my sound waves around me pushing through the walls, killing everything near, shattering lights, and destroying signals.

My head was like standing next to a million space rockets launching all at the same time. I couldn't control it.

Stop..

I have to stop it.

Stop..

My head hurts so much.

Stop..

Then I feel something touch me.

"STOP IT!" I scream at the top of my lungs unable to control the repercussions.

"Good job Faren. I know you could do it!"

That's what it was at first then it turned into a cruel laugh. With little effort he scooped me up in his arms and began to leave.

I almost fainted, I don't want to leave! Put me down! I wanted to shout at him, but I was unable to speak.
